Type of activity

Information dissemination

Why WHO is asking for this activity and how WHO will use the deliverables?

The dissemination of the CHAMPION trial's results is very important for the uptake of the WHO postpartum haemorrhage recommendations by the country and it is part of the WHO/HRP agenda. India is one of the LMIC countries where the burden of postpartum haemorrhage is high and therefore, the need to implement the results of the CHAMPION trial is a priority for WHO. By requesting an Indian institute to disseminate the results in India, WHO is increasing the chances that the results of the research will be widely applied.

What concrete actions will be taken by the designated institution? Be specific.

Following WHO guidance and to raise awareness on how to prevent postpartum haemorrhage, the institution will present the results of CHAMPION Trial at All India Congress of Obstetrics & Gynaecology (AICOG) and at the congress organized by the Federation of Obstetrics & Gynaecological Societies of India (FOGSI). The designated institution will also present the results of the trial in Nepal, at the Reproductive Health Supply Coalition Caucus. In addition, with WHO leadership, the institution will implement a demonstration project to identify barriers and facilitators for the eventual national roll-out of the heat-stable carbetocin use in the area of postpartum haemorrhage.

What will be WHO's role in this activity?

WHO will prepare the presentation that will be used by the institution at different conferences, and will discuss it with the institution to ensure alignment on the message that has to be given to the audience. In regard to the demonstration project, WHO will work jointly with the institution in defining the project and the process for a successful implementation.

Expected deliverables

1. 3 abstracts for dissemination meetings in India and in Nepal.
2. Use of heat-stable carbetocin for postpartum haemorrhage prevention implemented at district level of the 6 Indian provinces that participated in the CHAMPION trial.
