To
Dr. Nirmala S. Anand
Jawaharlal Nehru Medical College, Belagavi

During this extra-ordinary year, we saw considerable disruptions to our medical education rhythm and continuity with faculty & students having limited teaching & learning resources in absence of a conventional classroom.

During this phase ELSEVIER, took the initiative to support students in their remote learning needs and testing their knowledge amongst peer students across India.

We launched the ClinicalKey Student National Challenge 2020 in September which consisted of multiple rounds of weekly assessments from undergraduate medical curriculum. The students were tested in a range of subject areas in medical curriculum on ELSEVIER's interactive education platform, ClinicalKey Student.

It gives us immense pleasure to inform you about the success of Abhyudaya Mehta who competed amongst thousands of students across India & reached the FINAL round of the ClinicalKey Student National Challenge.

We take this opportunity to thank eminent teachers like you and your institute for fostering a high-quality learning environment & such talented budding doctors.

We look forward to more such student participations from your institute in future and supporting ELSEVIER in our mission to advance medical education across the globe with verified content & technology resources.

Thank you
ELSEVIER India

About ELSEVIER:

Growing from its roots in publishing, Elsevier serves the needs of scientific, technical and medical markets by organizing the review, editing and dissemination of primary research, reference and professional education content.

Dear Prof. Dr. Mamatha A,

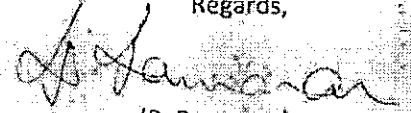

Hope you are keeping well. On behalf of Atal Innovation Mission and NITI Aayog, I would like to acknowledge the generous support we have received from you, to bring project Unnati to life. Your selfless contribution as part of the translation team of the project is deeply appreciated.

India's large workforce is one of the most important drivers of its economic engine. Today, however due to Covid-19, we are faced with an unprecedented duality - 20 crores blue and grey collar workers struggling to find gainful employment on one hand and shortage of labour faced by large corporates and MSMEs on the other. Unnati is the flagship initiative of the Government of India to connect approx. 200 million blue and grey collar workers with employment opportunities.

We are grateful your support. Wish you good health and success in your endeavors.

Warm Regards.

Regards,

(R. Ramanan)

this study. The workup of the patients were done on the basis of clinical features, Lab studies, radiological imaging and biopsy findings. All cases were followed till 6 months after the completion of chemotherapy. The mortality and morbidity in NWTS and SIOP group was compared. In this study there were total of 37 patients (21 in NWTS and 16 in SIOP) and stage wise comparison was made of these patients. The patients were followed during and after chemotherapy on the basis of blood tests and USG abdomen to assess general condition and presence of any metastasis. RESULTS: We found out that overall prognosis in patients of siop group was better as compared to NWTS. The tumour spillage in NWTS group increased the number of patients in stage 3 and was responsible for higher recurrence. The analysis of study revealed that out of 21 cases treated on the basis of NWTS 8 showed recurrence while only 1 case in SIOP group. The patients are doing quiet well on all health parameters in SIOP group. The cases with tumors confined to kidney without invasion to nearby structures showed almost same prognosis but in patients with large tumors SIOP group definitely showed better results intra and post operatively. According to our study SIOP is better comparatively than NWTS. CONCLUSION: Patients present late with huge tumor mass. SIOP approach has shown better results in Indian patients with large size tumors. Preoperative chemotherapy allows the responsible physicians time to better the nutrition, hydration, and general health status of the patients.

"SOCIAL CONTINENCE" A NEW TERM IN CHILDREN WITH EXSTROPHY BLADDER REPAIRS: A STUDY OF OUTCOME, QUALITY OF LIFE AND PSYCHOSOCIAL IMPACT.

Dr Santosh B Kurbet, Dr M V Patil, Dr Prashanth GP, Dr N S Mahantshetti J.N. Medical College & Dr Prabhakar Kore Hosp & MRC, KLE UNIVERSITY, Belgaum

AIMS : To study the results & quality of life, psychosocial impact in children and parents in cases of exstrophy bladder managed by modified CPRE
MATERIALS & METHODS : 11 cases of classic exstrophy-bladder operated by modified-CPRE by a single paediatric surgeon over 6 1/2 years from feb-2008 to Dec 2015 were studied-prospectively. Patients aged 4 day-newborn to 8 years, four females and seven males. Technique was of modified-complete-primary-repair-of-exstrophy bladder(CPRE.) Mean-operative-time was 4 1/2 hours. Patients were studied for intraoperative and postoperative morbidity, and assessed at 3 monthly and then yearly by urine exam, sonography, voiding cystourethrogram and renal scans. Quality of life was assessed by Pediatric quality of life inventory (PedsQL 4.0) & psychological impact by paediatric inventory for parents (PIP) questionnaires. RESULTS: Of eleven children, three patients (27 %) developed post-operative complications, dehiscence(1:redo done), and fistula(2). All patients are doing-well in follow-up with variable continence rates, no fistulae, and good cosmesis. Mean duration of follow-up was 18.5 months (Range: 6 months-6 years). seven out of ten(70 %) children are continent or partially continent. One case was lost to follow-up. PedsQL scores in all domains were comparable with their age-matched typical peers. CONCLUSIONS : Our preliminary experience suggested that CPRE decreases the number of surgeries, is safe and efficacious. We found the urinary continence difficult to achieve but it was possible to accomplish socially acceptable continence, which is important in country like ours where followup and compliance is poor. Further long-term follow-up studies are necessary to compare the results of CPRE with those of modern staged repair in Indian setting.

2. A rare case report of covered extrophy with duplication of glans and bladder diverticulum

Dr. Satyanarayana Ravula, Dr. K. Ramesh Reddy
 Niloufer Hospital for women and children

Exstrophy bladder is an exceedingly rare congenital anomaly and can present as a spectrum of anomalies. The incidence of exstrophy-epispadias complex ranges from 1 / 10,000 to 1 / 50,000 live births. Diphallia or penile duplication is an extremely rare congenital anomaly. It occurs once in every 5.5 million live births. The extent of penile duplication and the number of associated anomalies vary greatly, ranging from a double glans from a penis with no associated anomaly up to complete penile duplication associated with multiple anomalies. Here, we are reporting a case of 1 year-old boy with double glans associated with epispadia, and bladder diverticulum in a coveredextrophy. The management option along with a review of the literature of this rare anomaly highlighted.
